New Library Plans Completed

For the first time in 15 years, a program for the training of kindergarten teachers has been set up at the Oregon College of Education. Since 1931, when the kindergarten training program at OCE was established, 10,000 high school seniors that only 5 per cent of Jewish applications representing 56 per cent of Jewish students, while 77 per cent of the Catholic applications were accepted. Other factors besides religion and race affected the applicant's chances of being accepted. Jews who were more likely to be accepted than those with poor academic records.

The American Council on Education, which in an effort to increase the number of students attending colleges in the North, has developed and distributed a personalized admission survey. The survey is available to the public and is designed to help students assess their college options. The survey includes questions about college preparation, financial aid, and career goals.

Alize Pendley, Loans Displayed

In celebration of Art Week, Nov. 1-4, Alize Pendley has loaned to Kappa Pi an excellent collection of art pictures created by some of her students at the Strand grammar school for girls in Manchester, England.

The artist, whose works are displayed, are superior students chosen by the art department at the Strand Manchester school preparatory to entering college. The collection, which is on display in the case in Campbell hall and on the bulletin boards in the second floor near the art department. Everyone will find it very worthwhile to see this outstanding exhibition.
The President speaks

By H. M. GUNN
President, OCE

Manchester Benedict, editor of the Los Angeles Times, recently reprinted some letters from the people in his column. Two of them seemed quite pertinent to the situation today. He wrote:

"Dear Mr. Benedict:

"The world is passing through trying times. The young people of today think of nothing but themselves. They are impetuous, which gives them an air of invulnerability, and what passes for wisdom with us is foolishness with them. "As for the girls, they are forward, immoral and unsworn in speech, behavior and dress. Respectfully yours, Peter the Hermit." Peter appears to be a keen observer. He wrote that in the 12th century. . . ."

"The second letter is written by a "liberal." If it seems cynical, may be the author is tempering the crassness of youth with some wisdom."

"Mr. Editor, Sir:

"We believe that according to our national arrangement of things round about us; we believe this because otherwise we can see no other solution. We fear the solution that generally comes to pass is also favorable. We do not anticipate a great battle; it is too costly and dangerous to our desire, but gradually our desire changes. The situation that we hoped to change because it was intolerable becomes unnecessary. We have no desire to do battle; we have not sunk to the obstacle, as we were absolutely determined to do, but life has taken us around circle B, and now if then we turn to round past at the remote past, we can barely catch sight of it, so imperceptible has it become. - Very truly yours, -Marcel Proust."

"Mr. Proust wrote that some 80 years ago, but it still stands as one of the very best treatments of a pressing problem."

"Times and people do seem to change, but perhaps not too much nor too fast."

HOW IT WORKS

Our Student Government

The Publicity Commissioner meets with the Chamber of Commerce to publicize all athletic events through local and out-of-town papers and through other means necessary to promote athletic activities. The Intramural Commissioner is in charge of all intramural activities. The Assembly, composed of one member from each class and a faculty advisor who is chosen by the faculty, serves as the Social and Educational Council.

The faculty advisors are appointed by the president of the college, and acts in the place of the assembly. The Assembly Committee is composed of those students elected as representatives of the Social and Educational Council.

Questions concerning other student activities are handled by the Social and Educational Council, with Second Vice-President Ruth Schirmer serving as president. Procedures for placing any proposal to this council is handled by the president of the Assembly Committee.

The Chamber of Commerce meets bi-monthly and its duty is to be the representative of the student body to the business community.

The Financial Secretary is chosen by the Executive Committee and handles the disbursement of all student body funds, but also serves as a receptionist for the college business manager, who is the faculty advisor of the Executive Committee.

All budgets and accounts, questions of expenditures of student body funds must be approved by the respective councils or committees.

C. J. NOXON
Views USA

This summer Mr. Charles J. Noxon made quite an extensive trip across the United States. He made a special point to visit many places of historic and geographical importance. (History and geography students, take note!) Following are some of the high spots of his trip;

Mesopotamia national park. Here he saw the homes of the cliff dwellers that existed in Columbus. Also found here are food, implements, and mammal people. Due to the extremely dry atmosphere and the peaceful evacuation of the people probably due to drought, many artifacts have remained intact.

HOPELAND, Kentucky. A marble temple stands over the cliff in which Abraham Lincoln was born. Illinois, Van Buren national park. Here he saw the elaborate aeropachus which houses the remains of John Paul Jones. He also saw the remains of a small cottage in which Stephen Foster, the Old Kentucky Home of Stephen Foster's immortal song is located here. This house has been prepared for the use of students who are able to Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship meeting tonight, from 1 to 8 o'clock in room 232 of Campbell hall will feature Mr. Simon Porserbeck as speaker. Mr. Porserbeck is a Bible teacher from Portland. He has had considerable experience in religious conferences, and was present at the Portland chapter of the association. Considering his experience, he is considered one of the best in the South. The North, that is.

Młomouth Cove, Kentucky. This cave is one to explore in the fact that you can take a boat trip 400 feet underground following the Echo river which is illuminated by the microscopic algae in the water.

Natural Bridges in Virginia. George Washington visited this place and his initials are still to be found there.

Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.

Washinton, D.C. Here he studied and the elaborate aeropachus which houses the remains of John Paul Jones.

Texas Teachers Fired

Washington, D.C.—Describing an investigation of the Grand Prairie school system, an editorial writer for the Sunday supplement of the Wall Street Journal noted that the teachers were fired for political reasons. Facebookers responded with anger, while other readers criticized the school board's decision.

The threat to civil rights is a serious matter, and the American people should be aware of the importance of protecting the rights of teachers and other public servants.

The issue developed in a controversy which began in Texas, and the decision to fire the teachers was made by the local school board. The teachers had been accused of engaging in political activity, and the decision to fire them was based on the belief that they were not fulfilling their professional obligations.

The teachers' rights to engage in political activity are fundamental to the functioning of a democratic society, and the decision to fire them is a violation of these rights. The teachers' rights should be protected, and the decision to fire them is a step in the wrong direction.

The situation is a serious one, and the teachers should be allowed to continue their work. The decision to fire them is a violation of their rights, and the teachers should be allowed to continue their work without interference.

The Eloise Buck award was established in memory of Miss Eloise Buck, a former teacher on our campus. It is awarded each year to the senior who has accomplished the most outstanding career while at the College. Last year's Buck award was given to Miss Margaret Johnson. Miss Johnson is an outstanding student in many fields, and particularly in art. Her easy flow is an idea of Robert Browning's poem "My Last Duchess.

We are proud to present to you Mrs. Johnson's essay.

In "My Last Duchess," Robert Browning draws as perfect a picture of the Duke as any artist paints with his brush. How contrast beside the portrait, a silent but vivid sense in the unfeeling words composed on the signature board.

Following were the requirements:

1. Wear a ribbon with a sign of the name of your group, 1949 Class of Crimson O. These were to be worn all three days, and the nights of Homecoming.

2. Wednesday or Thursday night between the hours of 8 and 10, every member had to give a two-minute speech on some phase of drama.

3. On the day they chose to make the speech the initiates had to make up their faces similar to the Crimson O emblem. This "face" had to be worn all day and night during the speeches.

New members included Phyllis Abbott, Margaret Burnridge, Mr. Burn Curtis, Burt Curtis, Mildred DeVo, Helen Finger, Byron Hindman, Juliette Haberkat, Jane Gardner, Marty Mahana, Bruce Moorehead, Peggy Stoel, Neil Sawlor, and Jane McIlvride.

Buses Available for Group Trips

Groups wishing to take organized trips may obtain buses for transportation through the consolidated school district, Mr. Ellis Haberlach, Jane Gardner, Marty Stoel, Neil Sawlor, and Jane McIlvride.

The request slip includes such information as the route and purposes of the trip and the time and date of departure and return. The paper is then returned to Mr. Haberlach and from the business office it goes to Mr. Corey. The whole trip was handled by the business office.

The slip is given to the driver of the bus, and it is the record of the trip. It is then returned to the Crimson O business office for proper bookkeeping control, and payment is made.

To Teach Your Things That Matter - Corey

Dr. Stephen Corey, a noted economist, recently visited the College and University's Teacher's College, was present at a faculty banquet given in his honor on Thursday, Nov. 22. He has spent a good deal of time working with teachers as well as children all over the United States.

In Dr. Corey's estimation, the most crucial problem in curricula development is the fact that we are faced with the things that matter to us as boys and girls. As a solution to this dilemma, he enumerated six teaching problems that are important to them.

They are in need of education to teach boys and girls how to cope with problems—how to think, how to study. These are problems that we have all as adults, but we do not solve them as well as we should. The value comes from giving them experience in dealing with these problems.

Youngsters should be taught how to live a democratic life. An experiment was made in which two high school girls were studying despotism. They were followed to see what they had been doing. The problems which would arise were not settled in the same way as before. The girls wanted to do things as they wished. This was all right though we do what we want for college, for all the time in high school following the directions of the teacher. They do not wish that if we teach children to do better the things that we want them to. They want to do what we wish. The concern in college will grow as well to the concerns of the adults. By the time they are in high school the concerns of the young people will be the same as those of the adults.

Dr. Corey contends that there is a great danger in dealing with children according to their abilities. He feels that children are in most of the cases will want to do, then the concerns of the young people will be in the same manner as the adults. Also the students should not wear dresses with large print designs.

Also they should not wear dresses with large print designs. If the dress is too large or too small, it is not appropriate. It should be kept by the business office it goes to the studio.

This year's first Crimson O initiation was held last week, lasting Wednesday through Friday. The initiation involved some 16 candidates selected from three weeks of preparation on Mr. Corey's bulletin board.

Campus Dance Band Organized

The women's Athletic Association was invited by Marylhurst college to participate in their sports day, which table-tennis and swimming were emphasized. The event took place November 3 from 7 to 9 p.m. Contests in swimming and table-tennis, in which the emphasis was placed on fun rather than competition, were held from 7 to 9. Prizes were awarded to the winners.

Campus Dance Band Organized

Bucks will be happy to learn that a dance orchestra has been organized on the campus. Although some people may have believed that the belief flowing from Campbell hall was the last silent blacksmith, investigation has proven it to be this orchestra in rehearsal. Since this group, which calls itself "The Rhythm Eight," has been practicing four or five hours a week since September, it should be about ready to hit the road.

Members of this hard-working aggregation are: Allen Hubbard, pic- tures; Elmo Frye and Johnny Beggs alto sax; George Davidson and H. D. Peters, trumpets; John Herbert, drums; O. R. Arrill, trombone, and Jack Graham, who plays a sax and cares for the piano end of the group.

New cannot be Aviation Cadets!

If you are single, between the ages of 20 and 24, with at least two years of college, you may apply for a career as an officer in the U. S. Air Force. You may be able to make use of your high school and military experience and be selected for training as an Aviation Cadet. If you do not complete your Aviation Cadet training, you may return to civilian life and have opportunity to train as an Officer Candidate for an important officer assignment in non-flying fields.

Air Force officer procurement teams are visiting many colleges and universities to explain these career opportunities. Watch for their arrival—or get full details at your nearest Air Force Base, local recruiting station, or by writing to the Chief of Staff, Air Force, Attention: Aviation Cadet Branch, Washington, D.
