In the late months of 1857 and early months of 1858 she lost both a son, Charles Willet, and her husband to influenza and typhoid fever. During those same months, she also gave birth to a baby girl, Rachel. Her husband willed his estate to her as long as she remained a widow. The letters mention that there was some question about the legality of the will. Sarah built a house in Monmouth and led a comfortable life, marrying James M. Allen on July 5, 1860.

His early career was as a school teacher, and in Monmouth, Oregon, he served as secretary on the Board of Trustees for Christian College (now Western Oregon University), and on the executive committee throughout the 1870s and 1880s.
