CITY COUNCILMEN WORK ON FARM TODAY
Tule Lake Project's City Council enigmas rode trucks this morning to the farm to help harvest the crop. They will spend the day picking up potatoes.

They also favored that other departments follow suit in harvesting the crop by spending one day on the farm.

SECTION HEADS TO DISTRIBUTE PAY

In order that employees may receive their pay checks without the necessity of waiting in line during the cold weather, distribution will hereafter be made by Section Heads.

All inquiries regarding pay checks should be addressed to Section Heads rather than to the Payroll Section of the Administrative Division.

FUTURE PRIVATE PARTIES CANCELLED
All private parties which had been scheduled to be held at halls $700 and $7218 have been cancelled by the Recreation Department.

Responsible persons for future parties are requested to call at #1908.

REV. GOLDWATER HERE SUNDAY

The much awaited event of the Tule Lake Y.M. will become a reality this Sunday with the arrival of the Rev. Julius A. Goldwater from Los Angeles. The Rev. Goldwater will be here to add force and impetus to the Americanization program being carried on by the local Y.M. on a large scale.

On Sunday morning from 10 a.m. a special service will be held at the outdoor platform. In order that everyone may have the opportunity to listen to the sermon, the Sunday School regularly scheduled for that morning will be called off.

Project Director Elmer L. Strickler is also scheduled to speak at the service.

BUS OVERTURNED
RUMOR IS FALSE

Rumors to the effect that the last bus load of boat workers was turned over and that Mrs. Laura had died are false. This was verified through a telephone call from Tom Yago, former councillor, who is now at Caldwell, Idaho.

He further remarked that he had dinner with Mrs. Intura.

Yago is expected back in the City within the next few days in an effort to recruit several hundred more workers. The conditions and the attitude are favorable, he added.

Halloween
Mysterious Doings Evolved from Religious Holiday

BY EUNICE KINURA

Halloween is a pumpkin face and ghost stories, black and orange witches, parties with cider and doughnuts, stolen gates and cars in the schoolhouse, and certain buildings spirited away. Why these mysterious goings-on?

HARMFUL HALLOWEEN ANTICS ARE BANNED

As Halloween falls on Saturday, colonists are asked to refrain from committing acts of the customary Halloween prank.

Antics especially warned against are moving property and lighting fires.

The answer goes back many years to the fourth century when the Roman Church set aside a day on which all the early martyrs of the Christian Church were to be honored; a day on which they were to return for a season of solemn religious festivals.

RELIGIOUS HOLIDAY

This day was called "All-Hallo's (All Saints') Day", and the religious festival, "Halloweens". Thenceforward on the eve of these days (Hallow's Eve or Pock), preparations were made for the return of the saints and the "all-souls"; bon-fires were built in the countryside, and in the light of the fires, people gathered together for the vigil.

Throughout the years, Halloween evolved from a solemn religious festival to an evening of social gathering; thus Jack-O-lanterns and ghosts; The work of our great great grandfathers returned to earth trying their ghostly heads at their old tricks again.

BON ODORI

The similarity of concept between Halloween and the Japanese festival of the "Bon" is striking. Just as in the mountains of Japan, peasants danced their "Bon Odori" around the "Nikko-ki", welcoming the returning souls, so on the other side of the world, European peasants on hearths and sewers were keeping their Halloween as a waltz around the bon-fires for the return of their unseen friends.

VITAL STATISTICS

On Sunday a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Matsui Hirata and a son to Dr. and Mrs. John Nakano. Tan Takeno's daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Tsumoto Hachiguchi on Monday.
