Osya training program is expanded

REGISTRATION TUESDAY FOR VARIOUS CLASSES OFFERED

The out-of-school youth and adult training program (OSYA) again offers opportunities for training in both industrial and agricultural fields which should prove helpful in relocation.

Registration will be held Tuesday evening, May 25, from 6:30 p.m. until 9 p.m. in Warehouse #16. W. L. Chaplin, OSYA Supervisor, will have charge and will have sufficient help to handle the work rapidly.

If enough interest is shown, the following courses will be offered:

1. Operation, care, and repair of tractors, trucks, and automobiles.
2. Metal work, welding, tempering, drilling, shaping, and machinery repair.
3. Woodworking, farm buildings and equipment.
4. Operation, care, and repair, and construction of farm machinery and equipment.
5. Poultry, egg production.
6. Turkey production.
7. Poultry, meat production.
8. Rabbit production.

ADDRESS FOR EXP. FREIGHT

Residents sending packages by express freight should use the railroad name for Tulare Lake which is STALEY instead of the Post Office address of Newell.

Teachers with knowledge of psychology needed

In order that students needing special assistance may obtain the kind of help they should have, the Department for Special Students is sending out a most urgent request for capable persons with a knowledge of psychology and education and with various other special abilities. Applications for both full-time and part-time male or female workers will be accepted.

EXCELLENT TEACHING OPPORTUNITY IS OPEN

To develop teaching personnel and material for an American scholarship in the Far Eastern languages, six native-speaking Japanese are being asked to serve as teaching assistants in the intensive language program of the American Council of Learned Societies as desired, it was disclosed by the director of the organization.

Candidates for the positions will undergo a training period in order to familiarize themselves with the methods used for intensive language instruction. After which they will be expected to handle large classes in independently with other native-speaking tutors. They will be involved in teaching National Army officers under the American Specialized Training Program in the immediate future.

Candidates should be college graduates, bilingual in both English and Japanese. They should preferably be not older than 25. Their Japanese should be fluent and of the Tokyo dialect. Initial salary to the new candidates will be $150 a month, plus travel expense to Yale University where they will go for the training period. After the training period they will receive the same compensation as those now working for the organization, about $2,220 yearly.

The successful candidates will be assured permanent positions in the academic profession. The council will send a man to the relocation centers to interview.

THERE'S ONE IN EVERY BLOCK

"You know, it would be an easy thing to write a column if we did like "some other men do" when they write about the relocation centers or about evacuees. Many many more times than once, stories about us and the people where we are are not now have been published which are about as truthful as . . . well, we don't think of anything that untruthful at the moment.

One typical example is the case of a well-known columnist who wrote on the chance of evacuation returning to the West Coast after the war, among other things, and said, "These American citizens are the Japanese born in the United States. They went to the centers in order that the Japanese may be measured by the yardstick of their own worth."

Well, where that writer got the impression that the evacuees went to the centers of their own volition, in a measure of safety, to themselves.

We, well, here that writer got the impression that the evacuees went to the centers of their own volition, in a measure of safety to themselves. And, of course, being only a message evacuation, wouldn't know much about evacuation or relocation centers, but we did believe that when the evacuation orders went into effect, persons of Japanese descent had the choice of going to the center or the "jugo"—the great choices.

That certain writer, among others, must have been misinformed somehow. And, it does seem strange that even yet, five years after the evacuation, is not known by many.

But it is heartening to know that some know our real problems and are trying to help us in every way possible.

"maybe a good explanation of the whole thing could be "Truth is the first casualty of war."
HIGH LIVING COSTS CAN BE MET BY WISE SPENDING

ADVISORY COMMITTEE REPORTS

CHICAGO—It isn’t so much what you earn, it’s how you spend it, that determines whether or not the “high cost of living” is an obstacle to successful relocation.

This is the conclusion, based on experiences of approximately 300 more evacuees who were re-located of successful case studies of adjustments. Less than 5 per cent of those who have gone out on indefinite leave have failed and returned to the relocation center.

Many evacuees last month said, upon their return from internment, that opportunities were not as bright as they had been led to expect. Some were disappointed. Jobs were not as plentiful as they had thought they would be.

In particular, was hard to obtain. The situation, a close-up view, was not as rosy picture they had been shown while still in camp. Moreover, in April, unpleasant incidents received more attention than unreported accounts of satisfactory employment.
