As We See It...

A BIENNIAL AUDIT

In making an appraisal of the work of the Colleges of Education for the past two years, the following seem to be some of the highlights which might be of interest to students, alumni and faculty.

Two significant developments have taken place in elementary teacher training during the past biennium. The first of these is the increase in the number of students who have graduated in elementary teacher training. In 1947-48 the three colleges of education graduated 388 students from the teacher training program; in 1948-49, 574 were graduated, an increase of about 48%.

The second development has been the inauguration of a program of selective recruitment. High School graduates entering the program of elementary teacher training must be in the upper half of their high school graduating class and rank above the third decile in the A.C.E. College Aptitude Test. Transfer students who have graduated in the lower half of the third decile in the A.C.E. College Aptitude Test, are not competitive for teacher training.

The increase in enrollment in teacher training is gradually catching up with the shortage of elementary teachers in the state. In 1950 the three Colleges will graduate 450 teachers, in 1951 the number will be nearly doubled. Needed are new teachers and replacements is about 1,100 per year. The three Colleges of Education and the private colleges which train elementary teachers should be providing that number by 1952; so that the shortage of elementary teachers can be practically eliminated. There is no longer a shortage in the intermediate grades. At the present time the shortage seems to exist only in the primary grades.

The policy at the Colleges of Education has been to offer the best training possible with the facilities available. There are a few specialties offered at individual institutions which are not developed at the other colleges. For instance, the Oregon College of Education offers Kindergarten training and a program of training to certificate teachers for special education. This practical training makes it possible to build some areas of specialization which would not be possible with a program which attempted to be all-inclusive.

Numerous groups from the teaching profession in the state have requested graduate programs in elementary education at the Colleges of Education for the next biennium. To provide such an offering requires action from the Chancellor and the State Board of Education. Studies are being made at the three colleges concerning the possibility and practicability of this development.

The College looks forward in the next biennium to increased enrollment of an able group of prospective elementary teachers. It is significant in closing this biennial audit to point out that about 90% of the emergency certificates are being worked toward regular certification. Summer school sessions are rapidly decreasing in the number of emergency certificates in Oregon.

Registration for the 1951 summer session will be held in the gymnasium between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. on Monday, June 19. Payments for tuition and fees will be made in the treasurer's office building between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:00 p.m.

The only requirement for admission to the summer session is ability to do the work. However, students are long-time college administrators and they "know the ropes" in practically all activities.

Not Fishin'—Working

Beginning Wednesday, July 5, the registrar's and business offices will be closed from 8:00 to 12:00 each day except Saturday. The office per man will make up the necessary paper work during those hours and reserve the afternoon hours for admissions, information, and the handling of summer school work above the eighth grade.

Twelve qualified hours of work is the maximum student load for the summer session. Veteran students must carry at least four additional quarter hours to qualify for full subsistence from the Veteran's Administration.

Post Teach Nature Study

Field study of the Northwest will be an additional course offering for OCE's summer term. Professor Anton Poppel of the science department, who has developed a uniquely different approach to the field through new organization and integration of the material, will teach the course.

Get Ready for Fun This Summer

Trips, Movies, Concerts Planned

All students and faculty are reminded of the special assembly set for Tuesday, June 20, at 11:30 a.m. in CH auditorium. Announcements will be made, fees and administrative reports will be made.

The summer activity program has been planned to insure for every student an interesting and varied collection of extra-curricular activities which will increase the social and educational benefits available to him.

All students are urged to participate in all of the campus activities, and to make suggestions for the extension or improvement of the program. Additional off-campus bus trips can be planned if students indicate an interest in visiting other historical places in the state. Additional recreational and social events can also be planned if student interest is indicated. The dean of women is activities coordinator for the summer, and she will appreciate all suggestions for program improvement.

Talent Show

All kinds of talent will be needed for the student talent show set for Tuesday, July 28, at 8:00 p.m. Individual and group acts are encouraged. Please make arrangements now with the dean of women to plan for this.

Summer Trips

The activities calendar lists several Saturday and Sunday trips that should be of interest to many. Most of these trips must be planned well in advance of the scheduled date. Hotel reservations must be made, buses chartered, lunch arrangements made, and costs calculated. Students are urged to sign up early for any of the trips they wish to make. Trips with limited reservations numbers, students signing up early will be given preference. The sign-up deadline date given in the calendar is the date which cancels the reservations for that particular trip. Help make these trips successful by signing up now with the dean of women for all trips you wish to make.

Surely one of these jaunts will interest you. Overnight to Crater Lake; overnight down the Oregon coast; a camp-out trip on Mary’s Peak; a bus trip around the Mount Hood loop for a visit to Timberline Lodge, Hood River, Bonneville, and the Columbia Gorge.

Summer Conference

An all-day conference is being planned for Wednesday, July 20, on the Oregon College of Education campus. The conference, jointly by OCE, the Oregon Congress of Parents and Teachers, and the Oregon Education Association, will bring together well-known educators and PTA people for a joint conference on school-community relations. The conference, planned now when many communities are becoming more conscious of their schools, is of their inadequacies, and their problems, will be of great interest to all educators in the state.

Watch the Lantern for other city papers for further details of the conference.
