AN EVACUEE'S

WE ARE DOING OUR PART

A year ago today our nation was attacked at Pearl Harbor. We still remember that Sunday morning when we first heard splintering accounts of the bombings in Hawaii over the radio. It has been a fruitful year for all of us. We've had some setbacks and some advances. We have seen the nation's economy transformed into an arsenal of destruction. We should look back now and take stock of what we have accomplished and see what we can do to help others.

We should honor the men and women, including nurses and land residents of Hawaii, who died during the attacks.

Approximately, the first anniversary of the war has a theme—"Work, Fight, Sacrifice". We must continue to work for war-essential agricultural production; and we must close relatives who are overseas—our Army Postal Office boxes are located in San Francisco and Seattle and other war councils.

On this anniversary, the City will see 13 of its citizens leave this afternoon as volunteer enlistees for service in the Army of the United States. We can only say that we are not doing our part in this war, and we shall continue to do so—Alex Yorich

ERNST CONDUCTS INSPECTION TOUR

Accompanied by several WRA officials, Project Director Charles H. Ernst will conduct an inspection tour of the Project today, it was announced by the office of the Administrative Division.

This is the first of regular inspections to be made by Ernst at the beginning of each month. These surveys will be quite routine.

To observe the progress of the community personally, the Project Director is expected to investigate the hospital, warehouses, commissary, motor pool, water system, fire department, schools, farm projects, most of the red halls, dining halls, laundries, and shower buildings, garbage disposal and community enterprises.

It was stressed that in these monthly inspections there will be no inspection whatsoever on the privacy of the residents. "These tours are to serve simply to give the WRA administration a broad perspective of community life on this Project so that the staff may be able to carry on its functions with least difficulty," Assistant Director James F. Hughes added.
