WEATHER:
Sunny—if not cloudy. Rain—if not dry.

Men Move into Dorm, Martin Wins Election

If the fineness and quality of the new men’s dorm is reflected at all in their occupants, the opportunity for a well-organized working group of men could come into reality with little effort. Indications of this has already become visible as the men have successfully held and conducted their first business meeting in their new quarters. This was a thing of historical value for it signified the election of the first house officers, as well as the first group meeting of all residents.

Ron Martin, president, will be assisted by the following newly elected officers: Gene Rosaschi, vice-president; Eldon Gregory, secretary; John Kleinowski, treasurer; Lynn Huston, reporter; Ernie Kanen, sergeant-at-arms. These officers, plus one representative per 20 men, will form the house council.

Dr. Roy E. Lieuallen, college president; Dr. Arthur Glogau, dean; Dr. Corley; and Mrs. Clara V. Thompson, director of dormitories; and the men’s dorm house resident, Mrs. Clara Loes were the honored guests and also assisted with advice and suggestions.

Frosh Vacancy Filled, Stan Kenyon Is Head

Although the “greenhorn” of the campus, the frosh class, is in the upperclassmen’s arms as sponsoring dances and activities, a review of the activities of the year shows a successful bonding of take-note, sophas, and two after- game dances.

The frosh start the winter term with a new prayer, Stan Kenyon, Junction City. This office was left vacant when the former president, Hank Bass, did not return this term. To fill the shoes of the vice-president is Joe Higgins, Myrtle Point.

A new office, news reporter for the Laramon, was recently added to the frosh class officer’s roster. Rosalie Gilliland, Coos Bay, was elected to fill this position.

Jan. 21—Winter Term Play Casting is Made

Once again rehearsals, stage and property building, and play hits will be holding the limelight in the dramatic department as properties of the winter term play, “Antigone” has begun under direction of Dr. Galligan.

Directed by Josephine Youngstrom, the role of Antigone has been played by Linda Laundrup. Antigone and Creon, Sylvestre McVoy, and Pistol, Robert Lady play the parts. Thelma white, assistant nurse. Other roles are acted by Gordon Henson, Burton Magill, Robert Poole and Helen Booth.

“A love and Easter” has been selected for next fall’s musical and stage hits. Additional possibilities are being considered. The final decision is being awaited.

“Third time’s a charm,” and Jeanine Seeglitz, Fresenoom from Coos Bay, has been elected by the Student Council to break the chain of bad luck, characteristic of our past two editors. Jeanine, while attending Marshfield High school worked four years on the school paper, one of these years as editor. She has had one year of journalism, one of creative writing, and has attended several journalism conferences. Our new editor will take the Baby major change — that the staff work together in order to produce a more accurate and informative paper. Editor-baby, different page layout—general reorganization of the paper are all to be featured in the near future.

The staff itself is functioning with very little changes. However, George Ford, editor-in-chief, will take over the feature editor position and David Mobley, freshman from Coos Bay, will be the new sports editor.

Frosh Festivel Plans Formulate

“Tomorrowland” has been selected as the theme for the coming Frosh festival, which is scheduled for February 17 and 18. The program is to be headed by Loren Scott, general chairman.

Frosh Festivel, started in 1938, is a week-end during which participants of OCE students are especially invited to visit the college. Parents will receive invitations from the school, but they will most likely appreciate a personal invitation from you.

During these two days various activities will be presented for entertainment. Scheduled so far for this year are an athletic exhibition, a tea to be held in Todd hall, and after-games dances both Friday and Saturday night. The Pep club is presenting half-time entertainment for the Saturday night event.

Featured again this year will be the Talent Show. Last year was a thing of historical value for it presented a show of this type before the parents. The response was great enough to merit its being continued at this year.

A feature which has been renewed this year for the parents is the Dance presented for the campus. The tours will be led by house social organizations.

Sherry Gilbert, chosen as assistant to Loren Scott, and Dr. Corley, “Tomorrowland” adviser is Dr. Corley.

Cupid really knocked (or may be he came down the chimney) during the Christmas vacation for many years these fresheven have weathered what mother nature could muster up, but the last big blow proved too much for these age old stalwarts.

A.A. Increases Fold, Children Are Added

"Let's make the family big" seems to be a fitting slogan for the girls in Arnold Arms, as the house has decided to "adopt" a fifth grade class of boys living at the Children's Farm Home. This project for the winter term was suggested by Mrs. Emma Wilson, head resident, who works with these children each Sunday. She mentioned the idea of entertaining them to a Sunday dinner and amusements as a way of making their lives more meaningful. As she stated, "any little bit of attention is warmly accepted and highly coveted by these tots."

The idea was readily accepted by the girls who in turn on going even further. Instead of mere coming acquainted for an evening, they have decided to write to each child, individually, and strike up a warm friendship with them.

February 12 has been set for the dinner, and plans are formulated to make things an especially enjoyable event for these homeless children.

West House Holds Winter Term Elections

Re-elections seem to be the style this term as Arnold Arms, the new Men's dorm, and four parts of Todd hall have or are busy with the election of new winter term officers. West house, being no exception, recently held a fire side for just this purpose. Those elected were Irene Spyrh, Coos Bay, social chairman; Glenda Seely, Woodburn, house council representative; Judy Barclay, Crabtree, fire chief; and Sandy Campbell, Mapleton, assistant fire chief. Geraldine Zehner from Hubbard was re-elected as secretary.

Four OCE Students Attend Ohio Convaf

Oregon College of Education delegates returned Wednesday from the Ecumenical Student Conference on the Christian World Mission which they attended on the Ohio university campus at Athens during Christmas vacation.

Mrs. Natsu Tanahashi, high school teacher from Shonanoo Cho, Hiroshima, who is at OCE on a six month's visit; June Yasuhara, sophomore, Lecanie, Mas, Hawaii; Sumi Kossakayshi, Freshman, Honokohau, Lahainia, Hawaii; and Marilyn Neill, junior, Milwaukee, were among the 3800 students delegates present from 400 colleges and universities in North America.

During their stay in Athens the OCE women had the opportunity to hear outstanding Christian teachers and to participate in informal discussions on such issues as the new relationship of missionaries to the young churches around the world, the problems of colonialism, missions, undeveloped areas, new conflicts between Christianity and the non-Christian religions, and the relationship of the Christian faith to areas of rapid social change. Attention was focused upon the necessity for Christians to bring the reconciling power of Christ into the revolutionary issues of the world.

Ohio university campus appeared very much like a junior United Nations during the five days of the Ecumenical Student Conference, according to the OCE delegates. The delegates, wearing costumes from all nations, speaking languages of all continents, and presenting cultures from all parts of the world, mixed in friendly discussion, fellowship and prayer.

Mulder Heads Speech Clinic

Shirard, Oregon, was the scene for a Diagnostic Speech Clinic held January 5, as part of the services offered by the Western Oregon Cooperative Speech and Hearing Center at Oregon College of Education. A follow up clinic is planned for March 22.

During the course of the clinic seven children with speech problems were examined and suggestions were offered to parents and teachers for home and school treatment.

Dr. Robert Mulder, director of the Western Oregon Cooperative Speech and Hearing Center, conducted the clinic with the cooperation of Mr. James F. Rice, principal, Faulconer and Chapman schools, and Mr. Donald Sundland, head teacher, Faulconer school.

The service is offered for a five-county area in the mid-Tillamette valley through the State Department of Education, the Division of Special Education, and Oregon College of Education, and is part of the program aimed at the prevention of speech disorders.

Anyone wanting a "blazer" should see the Deans by January 20.

The question of what happened in the groove is clearly visible in the above picture which was taken shortly after the heavy windstorm during Christmas vacation. Intramural Rules Are Changed Varsity Players Not Barred Rules have been revised this year to permit former varsity basketball players to participate in the intramural basketball competition. In the past, such players would have been barred from action. The reason for the change is that there are several former varsity players on the campus. "Enough," the intramural commissioner says, "for every team to have some top talent.

A voluntary code of ethics as to the distribution of the good players has worked well thus far. Games so far have shown that the league is not at all spoiled because of the rule change.

Men's intramural basketball season is well under way. Two teams are in the league this year. Results so far:

MONDAY, JANUARY 9: Pie Eyes, 80-11; Trollers, 31-Trotskers

MONDAY, JANUARY 16: Dallas vs. Dally Ten, 7-45; Trollers vs. Dudd, 2-45

Wednesday, January 18: Rockets vs. Howell, 7-45; Vamps vs. Pie Eyes, 0-45

Friday, January 20: Vets’ Vill., vs. Clod Hoppers, 4 p.m.
