Dr. Horn To Speak at Education Conference

Set for ACE April 30

Feature speaker for the annual Educational Conference at ACE on April 30, will be Dr. Er- nest Horn, professor emeritus of elementary education at the State University of Iowa, according to a recent announcement.

Dr. Horn is the author of several books and a member of national repation of the field of elementary education, will address the general assembly in the morning and will meet with sectional groups in the afternoon.

Directors of placement burchase for teachers from the various state institutions will be asked to assist superintendent in obtaining information for filling vacancies in other systems.

The conference is an annual event which usually attracts some one thousand teachers.

Teacher's Honorary

"Alumni Banquet"

Seven students were invited to the teachers' honorary, Phi Beta Sigma, on February 26. Those invited are: Richard Harzy, Jim Hall, Clyde Head, Delmer Brown, Bill Dayton, Merle Souls and Jeanette Spindel.

Members of Phi Beta Sigma had the opportunity to meet alumni members at a coffee hour entertainment during the afternoon at Miss Emma Hinkle's residence.

After initiation ceremonies the annual alumni banquet was served at the Monmouth Elementary Cafeteria with Don McKenzie, president, presiding as toastmaster. The new members provided the evening's entertainment with a skit, "Whale Tails." During the evening short speeches were made by Miss Hinkle and Mrs. Howard, president of the group.

Clear Health Accounts

All students who have unpaid accounts for pencillin or terramycin at student health service in CH, should clear those accounts during the week of March 7.
EDITORIAL

In Accordance with Policy

Members of the Lamron staff met with the AS-OCE executive council recently to discuss matters of policy. While both groups agreed that the staff and editor have final responsibility of policy interpretation and both indicated their objective of working for the best interests of OCE, they differed on how to serve those interests.

One statement mentioned by executive members was their aim to "keep the students happy" and they indicated that, if the Lamron were working for the best interest of the college, this should be a Lamron objective also.

"Not necessarily so," was our answer, for as our policy is to "publish information in proportion to reader interest and concern," the information may not make students "happy." The contrary is possible, but suppression of news would not seem ethical, by our standards, on that basis only; or on the basis of the possibility of "getting the students up in arms," a limitation voiced by President Dale Harp.

To illustrate the type of story objected to by the council, as a case in point only, we cite an article concerning the return of an OTI Basketball in the February 14 Lamron. The view of the staff was that the case involved a reflection on the student body, the return of an OTI basketball in the February 14 Lamron. The view of the staff was that the paper would not seem distorted if the Negro as a knife and a clown. Because of this distorted picture our organization has consistently opposed such performances.

I am enclosing copies of a leaflet, "Blackface Minstrel," which cites reasons why minstrel shows are considered offensive. Sincerely, Henry Lee Moon, Director of Public Relations, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

This editorial is printed in accordance with Lamron policy, as stated, with endorsement of the editorial board.

Faculty Edges

VARIETY ‘O’-30-28

Dr. ‘Markus’ Halnes paced a resolute staff of Oregon College faculty to a 30-28 overtime victory last Friday. All feet that many inches, Halnes dropped through two gift baskets in the overtime to net the victory.

Superman, alias John O'Donnell, paced the forces of good in a second half drive to tie the score. Charlie Harris sent the game into overtime with a 40-yard dash that set up the basket. Bill Gin Hah Brown, 11-foot 2 and 3/4-inch postman helped.

Not content with their superhuman efforts, the faculty has issued a challenge to Variety ‘O’ to a volleyball game some time this spring. The faculty will be played under regular rules with no admission charge.

Leadership Class Told

Dr. Ernest W. Warrington from Oregon State University addressed the class as the OCE student council met on the OCE campus from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. on Saturdays April 2, 16 and 30. A fourth meeting may be arranged sometime in May. It is requested that attending to those classes who has not already signed up, is request- ed to contact Dale Hare, ASCOE president.

Students’ Folks Enjoy Week-End

Approximately 200 mothers and fathers attended the annual Folks’ Festival held on the OCE campus on Friday and Saturday, February 25 and 26.

Last year’s Mothers’ club of- ficers were re-elected to serve another year. They are: Mrs. Robert Jones, Salem, president; Mrs. Virginia Lindsey, Portland, vice president; Mrs. Chester Long, Dundee, secretary; and Mrs O H Linda, Salem, treasurer.

Dads’ club officers elected to serve for the next year were: Loren Gower, Aumsville, presi- dent; G Krautscheid, Hillsboro, vice-president; and Tim West, Portland, secretary-treasurer for the second year. Two delegates at large were chosen to serve as aids to the new slate of officers. They are: John Yoder, Hubbard, and James Booth, Salem, past- president.

Supervisor to Be at Aviation Meet

Merrin Mead, chief supervisor for Oregon high school pilots, will be at the Aviation Meet, which will be held at 4 p.m. at the OCE airfield, Salem.

Student Welfare Committee Makes Registration Recommendations

Recommendation concerning registration and the book store situation plus several physical facility improvements have come as a result of recent Student Welfare Committee meetings.

Registration during pre-sched- uling week would be extended to include turning in class cards and having the schedule card initialed, if the recommendations of the committee had not been turned down by the faculty. The committee also suggested that scheduling could be done by student volunteers in order to save faculty time.

Lack of available staff and physical facilities to adequately handle the book store situation was the conclusion of the group as to the source of difficulty in the store. No immediate solution was apparent as additional to the college staff would not be likely until next year.

Answers Book Store Complaints

Complaints concerning hours the store is open were answered upon learning that students may receive service from the Presi- dent’s office when the book store is closed.

New hindrances have been in- stalled on CH stairs and campus crosswalks and curbs will be re- pained. Better safety measures advocated by the commit- tee after investigation of the sit- uation.
