Keywords: Peter Sears Poetry Prize, poetry

They shipped us home, never telling us enemies would follow, crouching in fever dream jungles, watching our gun boat slide by, or that there's no waking from scanned riverbanks, shifting eyes and hidden barrels, that in all the waters of the world, we'll see heads of unlucky brothers, bobbing obscenely

in the ripples we cast, graying skin stretched tight across skulls like membranes across the rice drums we sometimes heard through rattling palms, that even eyes clenched shut, won't convince us they're only rocks.
