

College Western Oregon Style

Instructions

Getting Started: Select Lego figure and place them on the space of the board named "New Student Week".

Goal and Purpose: your goal is to make your way through your four years of college and collect the most college points available.

Choice Cards: There are spaces on the board called choice spaces. Upon landing on one you pick up a choice card that has a scenario and two different choices, you choose one and you gain or lose the amount of points it says.

Points: There are three different kinds of points in the game Social, Knowledge, and College.

-Social and Knowledge: These kinds of points are what you'll be either gaining or losing throughout the game. The points are to stay separated and you should keep a running total of each social and knowledge points.

-College Points: These determine the ending you get. You get these points at the end of the game when you reach the ending space there you add up all of you social and knowledge point you have accumulated throughout your college experience. These College points determine your ending.

Game play: Each player (up to 4) take turns rolling a dice and moving along the board while gaining or losing either social or knowledge points (starting at zero). There are two branching paths sections whether you study or go to a party and living off-campus or being an RA. Each path yields both rewards and consequences. At the end of the board everyone totals up there points to get their college points and get their ending from being a dropout going back to live with mom to going to grad school.
