COEDS’ CHATTER

A bigger and better college; that is what we have this year at OCE. Returning students find revolution in our campus. OCE welcomed the largest freshmen class in its history, a fine group of coeds’ and coeds’ alike. Our men team is an outstanding football team.

Todd hall girls, new and returning, have found changes in regulations, privacy, and in house cleaning. Second floor has the most important addition in the form of a women’s common room, which is very near completion. Study tables have been set up in the women’s dormitory. Decorations have been changed from Wednesday to Thursday night because of the audio-visual aid class. The furniture in the main living room of Todd hall has undergone a miraculous change with new upholstery and a nice new fire screen for the fireplace.

Understand that the changes here at OCE, tradition still holds. In many ways, classes have been altered but designated as “belles” walz. In OCE, there is no such tradition as being a coed or a gals for friendship is one of its oldest traditions.

To get away from the sermon that said reporter began to preach here at OCE, I believe that the snoop has heard in the past week.

A visiting reporter at Todd hall was so huge to hear his head and ask the question, “When were you in Medicine?” His hostesses was heard to say, “I could not understand a word you said.”

The Recorder was heard to answer, “You were not speaking to us, you were just speaking to myself.”

The female reporter said, “Lady, you’re an old dear,” every girl who was speaking to her. She was seen asking one of these questions to some old man. Lady is the little dog belonging to Miss Carter and Mrs. Jessup. Sorry, sorry.

Just returning from the West Coast are the following.

Just returning in Venice, the young veteran who came after his service. He has undergone a change in the Lamron, “Captain, please come to ye old dormitory in the way of chit-chat.”

A school paper does not only give the students the school information and, how we, please, hope it does. It also gives them, or, a certain responsibility, for this paper. It is an important and the responsibility of each and every student to do his share, whether or not he is on the staff, to help make his school paper one that he will be proud to have for a representation.

Some of the editorial staff, realize that the Lamron is not perfect. On the other hand, we feel that it can be made into a paper we can all be proud of. In order to make this paper the best that any student who has a complaint, or a suggestion to make, to please make them to us. This is possible by writing a letter to the editor. These letters will be published in the writer’s name, and all guest editors and any news item concerning any OCE student will also be appreciated. These items should be left in the Lamron office in any of the union building or in the Lamron office. It may be the way for publication in the following week’s edition.

CHIT-CHAT COLUMN FAVORED

It is not the purpose of this column to start an any revolutionary or radical reforms on the campus. However, I feel that if I can give impetus to a movement that seems favorable, and is already being agitated, I can do any harm. This week, there has been something brought to my attention which I feel should be argued out and settled without further delay.

In an OCE pamphlet I have heard several discussions on the matter of a column that would have a more personal and humorous touch to the current news and the current events. It was suggested that I have heard against is the fact that it was voted down by a student council which is now retired because of mistakes made by the writer who is now out of school. The question was brought to my attention this year again so I had the Lamron’s roving reporter, Mary Oberg, get an opinion from the students and it is usually the only representative of that school information and, we hope, pleasure.

Modern Dance
The modern dance class under the direction of Mrs. Knox has gotten off to a fine start with a large increase in enrollment. The new course includes almost all women and men who hope to exchange classes with the beginners in Corvallis.
A club is being organized to give both the old and new members a chance for their own composition. This club will attend programs of modern dance artists and the dance symposium.

ATHLETIC COUNCIL

SOCIAL-EDUCATIONAL COUNCIL
Assembly Com. .... Elmer Winter Social Commissioner .... Nilda Fox Faculty advisors include Mr. George Harding, Miss Joan Benney, and Mr. Ellis Robbins, with others to be appointed.

As there was nothing in the By-Laws to cover resignations, the resignations of Scott Thompson, publicity commissioner on the social-educational council, and of George McCormick, publicity commissioner on the athletic council, brought up the following amendment which was proposed and posted: "Special elections may be called by the president of the association in case of vacancies created by resignations from either council."

Other minor topics of interest were brought up but were left until a later date for further discussion.

The following officers were elected at the council meeting, held Tuesday evening in Campbell hall: Lois Age, president; Lois Jones, vice-president; Evelyn Marsh, secretary; Jean Schriever, treasurer; Betty Danley, song leader; and Rosemary Ford, reporter.

After a discussion of an amendment for the club constitution, a joint meeting with Colleto Colada was held whereby the amendment to both constitutions was voted upon and passed. This amendment provided that girls must be on the campus two terms before being eligible for membership in either of these organizations.

Plans were formulated for a semi-formal dance to be held in recreation hall on Saturday, Oct. 9, at 8 p.m. This will be a date affair, so grab your favorite girl early, fellows!

Successful Year Recalled
Any student who attended OCE last year is sure to remember the brilliant performances presented by Prof. George Harding's group of actors known as the Crimson. "O". These lovers of the paint and platform worked diligently all year but were simply rewarded by the applause of several appreciative hours. Last year they attended tournaments at Portland, at the College of Puget Sound in Tacoma, Washington, and at Linfield colleges. They also received invitations from other large tournaments but were forced to refuse because of a money shortage.

This year, with a proposition of getting allotted more money, they hope to send representatives to more tournaments. It looks like a big year with a lot of work and a lot of fun, so any student who is interested, regardless of previous experience, should consult the instructor.

Neals Nook
Six OCE eights have made their homes at Neals Nook, located at 165 W. Clay street.

Denise Caroline Cook claims the biggest residence at OCE. She came here in the summer term of 1947 and will graduate summer term of 1949.

Vivacious Barbara Brose transferred from the University of Oregon winter term. It is said that she staunchly maintains that the script of "O" has been the making of her dream of becoming a nurse for this year's football season.

Marie Dilley, a friendly senior, transferred from OCE this term. "Pit" is making a fascinating secret as the origin of her nickname.

Lucille Kestek, cheerful sophomore, who transferred from the University of Oregon this year. On sunny days you can see her at her favorite sport - playing tennis.

Charming Barbara Gates, tagged "B.O." for conventions, is a transfer from the under-water extension of higher education at Vanguard.

Winona Ruth Schultz stuffed the ballot box and so became the representative for the house. She is a member of Wolf Knights, Varsity O and the class of 1948. Along with her, you'll find them a fair combination of earnest co-operation, ever ready with a helping hand in any student activities.

Writing Class Revived
Some of the anxious students, who enter the English department with a love for literature, decided to form a class to study the classics who would like to write for the paper but who feel they are not qualified, should enter the class of journalism for teachers on their schedule. This class, according to the instructor, Dr. J. F. Banke, will be mainly for the purpose of teaching the student in trying to make his, or her, articles more desirable.

Tom Jones

his hope it will be as much as before he can play football. According to the medicine man his injury will take from two to three more weeks to heal. The left half of his body does not feel as it did in the ball game before the end of the season and he does OCE.

Tom's football experience date back to high school at Cottage Grove where he played three years, receiving honors. After graduating in 1942, T. J. spent two years in the army air corps, and was a pilot in the E.T. O. He registered at OCE in the fall of 1946, since then becoming a member of Wolf Knights, Varsity O, Theta Delta Phi, and various committees. In 1947 Staff and Key selected him as the "All American" for 1947-48.

When asked about his ambitions for the future, Thomas grinned and said: "First I want to get through school, then I guess I'll teach elementary school for a while. Ultimately, I hope to coach high school football. So far I am also considering administration work."

Tom likes to fly, he says, but "$120 substitute a month does not leave much money for flight time." He makes his home at the Veto Village with his family, wife Joyce, and daughter Pamela. Now a senior, Mr. Jones hopes to graduate in the spring with a B.A. degree in elementary education.

Touch Football Season To Open
Touch football season with its thrills, spills, and spills has arrived and with it comes the usual pre-season dope bustle. Thedefining championship, "The House of Burglars," has added strength and a few newcomers to the team to keep the. This should bring the usual round of "rumbustious" from the rest of the league, especially West House and Veto Village.

The league hasn't been definitely organized yet and there is still time to enter a team. Do so far the following teams have been proposed: Burglars, West House, Veto Village, Arnold Arms, Merry Maids and possible entries from East House and other prominent independents. There is still room for more teams in the Big Eight, so let’s organize a team and go out and pick up that trophy! All players are covered by student insurance, and are eligible for its benefits.

WANNA News
At the first meeting of the college year, the Women's Athletic Association had a winter road for all the women students of O.C.E. Those interested in athletics could make a special effort to attend.

The following plans have set the date and time for 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, October 4. The meet will be held in the gymnasium for the following formation:
