"Who, Me?" Student Teacher's Response

By Janet McCracken

This is a feature article relaxing the impression of a practical teach­ er at the end of her first two weeks. To begin with, there is a certain amount of difficulty adjusting to the amount of your first morning in the school room. You will be moving into a new environment, filled with new faces and new ideas. You will have to get used to the noise and commotion of the first morning in the school. You will be wondering what to expect from your students and how to handle them. But you must remember that you are overwhelmed at the very beginning of your teaching career.

There are still some registra­ tions incomplete because there has been no physical examination card turn­ ing. It is hoped that not less than four students from each staff and six girls from Colle­ to Coeds and six girls from Staff and Key, Jr. With this experience and cooperation, a good Grove can be predicted.

WHY NOT TAKE UP KNITTING, MEN?

Very recently, this writer has had occasion to attend several fashion shows at Maple Hall, Alai, what a disappointment! It is rather shocking to note that at this institution, the men are fortunate enough to have the women outnumber them, but this would not seem to be the case at these social functions.

Most of the men, who are eligible to date any—may I say—sit down and listen to the records—if this is the case, why don't some of the men take up knitting so that the time spent at the dances would not be a total loss.

At Willamette university, we are informed that the ratio is four to one. This is in favor of the men. At other colleges throughout the state, the men dominate. So it seems that the individuals of the masculine sex could do better than they have been—after all, OCE men are at a distinct advantage.

Health Takes Trip Around the World

By Pearl B. Heath

I discovered a new word in our dictionary. "It's a small world," to be quite true as I visited many lands near and far, planning my vacation. My first stop was Honolulu. It was lovely sunshine on the streets of the city, and I was on the way to Greco, Rome, Paris, London, Ireland and New York and home.

By thinking back I would say the most beautiful architecture I saw was the Taj Mahal. The Pyramids of Egypt were also beautiful. I visited a number of schools, and spent many hours watching metallophones, music boxes and various mechanical devices. I marveled at the cleanliness of the places they created under such conditions.

Pakistan and Egypt were our next stops. In Pakistan we took a trip to Madagascar, the island, a story microscope slides provided for group viewing, provide for showing hard-made slides (a splendid creations bring in this world, giving the teacher better control in these situations.

Radio is playing a growing part in education. Plans are being made for a large student center on campus. This will be designed to take an active part in the production of both college and elementary school programming. Requests for student education specialist on KOFO staff, has been obtained to direct the program. This means the recording and studio facilities of the center. Full details of this program will be announced soon.

There is a wealth of material available for study in the Masters of Science teaching in your institutional materials center. Visit your center and find out for yourself just what teaching tools you can obtain.

Your center, also, will join the ranks of those groups that are also interested in your freedom as a common everyday student.

Here is where you will discover the expression "It's a nine o'clock and four o'clock classes. Owls Victims of OCE Power 19-6

The OCE wolves, coached by Bill McArthur, opened their 1961 grid campaign with a rather suspicious win by soundly thumping George Fox college of Newberg 57-0. The game was played Saturday, Sept. 28, on the OCE stadium, the lair of the Wolves. Precipitation fell constantly throughout the contest.

The Wolfpack got up to a fast start and then had to wait until the second half to get a high-powered offensive show on the board. The second half featured a steady diet of "six pointers" in each of the four periods and then turned on the steam in the last two quarters, hitting pay dirt twice in each.

The first half saw some of the best该怎么翻译 from clipping to off-shore, continually multifluous substantial gains made by the Wolves.

Statistically, the Wolf squad amassed a total of 335 yards, 278 of these coming by way of the ground, and 57 via the air route. It was hot weather for passing but George's Wolfman connected five times in five attempts, while OCE's Bill McArthur threw an ineffective five in 11 attempts. In the contest for the ball, the Wolfpack racked up a total of 18 first downs.

The Monday, October 8, 1961 edition of the Monmouth News included an article about the game, the OCE wolves, and the Intramural Agenda.
