Puppet Show Draws Enthusiastic Crowd

William Shakespeare's "Macbeth" and "The Taming of the Shrew" were presented in the Campbell hall auditorium last Tuesday evening at 8:15 p.m. The actors and actresses of the plays were puppets manipulated by Merritt B. Smith, a student of Middletown, Indiana.

Both plays were presented from a specially designed stage. The audience was impressed by the clever combination of stage decoration, lighting, and the depicting of historical background that was used for Macbeth. The puppet's body, designed manner, long-flowing robes and the time-stage lighting effects seemed to help the play retain the tragic air for which it was originally intended. The rather tight expressions and gestures gave the puppet players of the plays a special atmosphere for the eerie, mythical parts they played. They were meticulously in keeping with characteristics of human beings.

Their presentation of "The Taming of the Shrew," however, departed from the original. That contrast was noticeable and a sudden change from the highpained dramatic picture of the original, but it somehow led the impression that all the alterations in the comedies met the wishes of Mr. Shakespear because he was on the stage, as a puppet, supervising the play.

He directed most of the scenes, received the tips of the player and acted parts at one point in the play he took the part of a horse. When things went wrong, they were repaired and corrected and proper, but when he was missed his language became very laconic. That contrast was added to the comedy. He was the same actor as in "Hairless Joe" Gregg, who be guests at her home from 8 to 10 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 11.

Tribute Given To State Leaders

To honor and pay tribute to Gorin Smith, Secretary of State, and Senator President Corbett, the three state officials who were recently killed in an airplane crash, OCE faculty and students held a memorial assembly to the auditorium of Campbell hall last Monday at 11:30 a.m.

President Oce announced Dr. C. A. Howard, former OCE presid ent, who knew the three state leaders quite well. Dr. Howard presented a brief history of each of the three deceased. He spoke highly of them and of their deeds in public service.

Dr. M. B. Gaylord read a number of classic literary passages that expressed appropriately the feelings of the audience.

The OCE afternoon classes for that day were dismissed.

Armistice Day To Be Observed

To observe the twenty-fifth anniversary of the end of World War I, an Armistice day assembly will be held by the OCE students beginning at 11 a.m. on Tuesday, November 11, in the auditorium of Campbell hall.

The memorial will be observed with music and by an address during the twenty-fifth anniversary period by the school.

Gunn Named

At J.T. Banquet

Last Friday evening a dinner and reception honoring President and Mrs. Henry M. Gunn was held in Jenkins Todd hall. Active faculty members, retired faculty members and teachers of Monmouth and Independence training schools, as well as all persons connected with the college, were present. Dr. C. A. Howard, president, and Mrs. Howard were present at the event and they were greeted with applause just as any successful human being would have done.

County Schools Closed Today

Polk county schools are closed today as Polk county teachers are striking. Among the following addresses are being given by Dr. Ben Polk, President of the Polk County Teachers' Association: OCE: Dr. Frank M. Pax, executive secretary of the Oregon Education Association; Polk County Superintendent Frank Jentz of the Falls schools; and Rev. Putnam, elder of the Palestine church. Section meetings are being held under the supervision of John Willis, county superintendent of schools.

Disaster struck about the middle of the afternoon when an Upper Paris home burned allowing Lester McKim and Joe Roberts to take a shortcut to good old terra-firma. They were soon dragged out of the way of progress but the class had to sacrifice some of the more useful in getting them to the hospital and the work reached a premature conclusion.

The infant firestorm finally arrived and a dozen or so steel-tipped stumps of turned out to defend the freshmen's fire-lighting comrades against the same routing opposition. They were the last day in the tug-of-war content. One, more disaster struck. Mess Marsh received numerous burns when the oil-soaked fuel was poured on him while he was trying to light the bonfire.

It wasn't the biggest fire ever built on this campus for the occasion but we feel that some of our other classrooms should try to catch a little of the freshmen spirit which was represented in those flames.

Freshmen Slave on Homecoming Fire

Mild Disaster Strikes Three Workers

According to legend October 31 and the things they've done on past Halloween's, but this year it will have an added significance for some of us. It was not Halloween but also the first day of the OCE homeowners' coldness condition which meant, among other things, a bonfire the fresh­ men had to build for the rally.

Work was underway as soon as breakfast was over. The students were soon erected and the frame work started. Mother Nature was not as helpful as they had hoped. The weather, however, was fine.

ARTISTIC DAY

November 11 is a day that the United States must cherish and never forget. That day Germany and her allies surrendered to the United States, Great Britain, France and other Western powers in what was then the greatest of wars. After months of bloody fighting in the trenches, Marshal Foch, commander of all the Allied forces, drove a wedge into the German army which broke its back. November 11 is a day of rejoicing throughout the freedom-loving peoples of the world. That war is now called World War I.

Although World War II has been over but two years, let us look back to the fallen heroes of World War I. We should thank God that we are Americans and that we are still free. World Wars I and II were fought in the firm belief that they would end all warfare, but it has not worked out that way. Let us remember November 11 and keep it sacred to the memory of the doughboys of 1917-18. They did a fine job! We can't let them down!

The free expression of opinion, as experience has taught us, is the safety valve of passion. The noise of the rushing steam, when it escapes, alarms the timid; but it is the sign that we are safe.—Gladstone.

A man attains in the measure that he aspires. His longing to be is the gauge of what he can be. To fix the mind is to foreordain the achievement.—Jas. Allen.

Good breeding consists in concealing how much we think of ourselves and how little we think of the other person.—Mark Twain.

When grace is joined with wrinkles, it is adorable. There is an unspeakable dawn in happy old age.—Victor Hugo.

No man ever repented that he arose from the table sober, healthful, and with his wits about him. —Jeremey Taylor.

A man is relieved and gay when he has put his heart into his work and done his best.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

It is by presence of mind in untrod emergencies that the native metal of a man is tried.—James Russell Lowell.

One thing worse than being alone is to be with someone who makes being alone a pleasure.—Franklin Forbes.

The race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong, but the betting is best that way.—Franklin P. Adams.

Subtlety is the art of saying what you want to say and getting out of range before it is understood.

Buy what thou hast no need of, and e'er long thou shalt sell thy necessaries.—Benjamin Franklin.

Observe all men; thyself most.—B. Franklin.

STAFF and KEY

Stairs in your eyes, and a song in your heart, - schedule a date with a handsome Romeo for the "All-American" Staff and Key's winter formal. What a dream it will be — the first formal of the year and the first formal for the freshmen. But now for the All-American himself. Boys, prepare yourselves. One of you who dash down the football field for a touchdown, or stop the ball on the one-yard line, or tackle the best man on the other team, will be chosen as the All-American of 1947. What a little for the lucky man! What an honor! Already the Staff and Key girls are thinking over the men most likely to succeed. There are so many of you that it has become a great task. Indeed. But, on the night of Friday, November 21, the All-Americans will be presented in all their glory.

This is to be strictly a dance. Therefore, men, get your dates early — before the end of this week — so the girls won't have to worry. The dates will be from 5 to 11 p.m., and Glen Woodruff's orchestra will play.

ON WORKSHOP BROADCAST

Paul Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Thompson, 330 Church street, Monmouth, was included in a quarter-hour discussion that appeared on the University of Oregon radio workshop broadcast over station KOAC on Monday, October 27. Mr. Thompson is a senior journalism major at the University of Oregon.

SCA News

Reverend Clark Rinz of Dallas was the speaker at Student Christian Association's meeting last Monday evening. In his talk, "Those Who Are Worthy of Their Names," Rev. Rinz stressed the fact that Christians in name only and not in deed are unworthy of the true name of Christian. He pointed out the dire need in the war-devastated countries of the world and aid of some of the organizations which are now at work on relief projects, particularly Church World Service.

Mina Zeiby read a memorial to Governor Snell and his aides. A student panel is planned for the next SCA meeting, which will be on Monday, November 17.

News From the Dean's Office

Although Armistice Day, which falls this year on Tuesday, November 11, is a legal holiday, it is not a school holiday. All classes will occur as regularly scheduled.

A special memorial assembly will be held at 11 a.m. The OCE band, students, and faculty members will participate.

Leaders of the Veteran organizations of Monmouth, Dellott and Independence have been invited to attend the assembly as guests of the college.

A new weekly event on the campus calendar will be the Arnold Arms Gym House, to be held each Wednesday from 8 to 10 p.m. Coed attendance will be by invitation.

Men's houses are open to women students at any other time.

* Students are reminded that bowing of the fire hued and school social custom, smoking at Rec. hall dances is discouraged. Service clubs sponsoring dances will appreciate individual cooperation in this matter.

* * *

Faculty and student members of the remodeling committee for the Rec. hall, have been kept busy meeting with contractors to study plans for the project. bids on building materials and equipment have been submitted by several wholesale and retail contracting establishments.

Construction of the fireplace will be the first of several major improvements planned to take place during the year.
